

JOB DESCRIPTION - JUNIOR TAX LAWYER / ADVISOR

Tiberghien is a leading independent law firm with offices in Luxembourg, Antwerp, Brussels, Ghent, Hasselt, and a representative office in Zurich. As part of an international tax network, Tiberghien provides its clients with advice, mediation, and dispute resolution services. The firm focuses on tax law, corporate law, investment management, and transfer pricing/valuations in a Benelux, European, and international context. Tiberghien caters to a diverse clientele, including businesses, investment (fund) managers, and high-net-worth individuals.

The journey of Tiberghien began in 1939 with Albert Tiberghien, the pioneer of tax law in Belgium. Today, the firm boasts over 125 lawyers dedicated to offering individuals, companies, and organizations daily assistance with effective solutions for their tax and family challenges, and asset protection.

At Tiberghien, we pride ourselves on being a human-sized firm where teamwork and entrepreneurship are integral to our DNA. This foundation ensures a committed approach, where we engage in dialogue and build absolute trust, offering tailored responses to the unique situations of each client while always considering the broader context. For economic aspects such as transfer pricing or valuations, Tiberghien leverages the expertise of Tiberghien Economics. To help further expand our (tax) practice in Luxembourg we are looking for a

Junior TAX lawyer / advisor with 0 to 2 years tax experience (in a law firm or international tax/accounting firm)

Description

As part of our dynamic team, your role will involve a diverse range of tasks, primarily focused on assisting clients with their annual (tax) compliance as well as offering advise – alongside one or more experienced colleagues – on both individual and corporate income tax matters of Luxembourg, mainly in an international setting. Additionally, your responsibilities may extend to providing support in tax litigation cases.

- You will search for solutions and develop tailor-made strategies that comprise not only tax aspects but also cover legal and accounting aspects.
- You will assist in the implementation of structures and assist in the (tax) review of legal documentation thereby liaising with the colleagues from the legal/regulatory department and interact with clients, external parties (e.g. notaries, banks, administration companies).

- You will assist our clients in the preparation of their Luxembourg tax returns and their follow-up with the Luxembourg tax administration.

Profile

- You have a university degree (Master2) in Law or in Economics or Business Administration.
- You have a strong understanding of the Luxembourg tax law and are proficient with numbers.
- You have gained relevant work experience in the field of taxation.
- You are fluent in English, both in writing and speaking.
- You are eager to learn and develop continually.
- You are creative and solution oriented.
- You are a team player with strong communication skills (both orally and written).
- You have the ability to conduct detailed legal analysis and provide practical and accurate solutions.
- You are flexible, can work independently and are able to manage pressure effectively.

Our offer

- You will become part of a small, yet experienced team, combining various nationalities, which aims to combine professionalism with a healthy work-life balance in which you can develop and apply your knowledge in the field of taxation, yet remain encouraged to develop or participate to new initiatives.
- You will experience a friendly & respectful working atmosphere.
- You will be given the possibility to also work hybrid (office or home office).
- A beautiful office setting centrally located in Luxembourg city with easy access by train, tram or bus.
